The Quality of our lives and the decisions we take is determined by the quality of the thinking we do first.

This profoundly impactful way of being a coach/listener is supported by a growing body of neuropsychological evidence. This helps us to understand how, and why, the quality of one person's attention impacts on the quality of another person's thinking, on their decisions and actions.

This way of being is regarded by many as an essential coaching and mentoring skill, ideal for all those managing and leading people: the training and application of it is also an invaluable personal development tool.

This programme is a prerequisite for the Time To Think Coaching Course

THE COURSE

This six-session programme is an intensive, experiential course designed for a maximum of 6 participants. The course content explores the theory and practice of the Ten Components of the Thinking Environment and its use in the Thinking Partnership® Session. The Thinking Session is the bedrock of the Time To Think approach. Learning to give the extraordinary attention that enables people to think for themselves with unprecedented clarity and courage is an essential leadership, coaching or mentoring expertise.

AIMS & OBJECTIVES

- To learn the process and skills of the Thinking Partnership session
- To explore all Ten Components of a Thinking Environment - their application to, and their impact on, individual thinking
- To examine and acquire skills in the construction of Incisive Questions
- To have time to think, with precision, about issues of importance to you
- To enable you to experience this quality of thinking and listening both as a Thinker and as a Thinking Partner

This course equips you with skills for many contexts:

- 1-to-1 coaching and mentoring
- client relationships
- team leadership and management
- day-to-day discussions
- and, of course, your personal life

Essentially this course improves communication and understanding on all levels with all people at all times.

THE FACILITATOR

I am a Time to Think Consultant - training in a Thinking environment is a deep love of mine. The online environment allows for depth and concentrated engagement. It has been eye and heart opening to bring this work to hundreds of people during the pandemic - online - fully engaged and energised.
